THE TWENTIETH AND LAST VOLUME OF THE
STATISTICAL ACCOUNT OF SCOTLAND;

STATISTICAL ACCOUNT OF SCOTLAND;
Drawn up from the Communications of the Ministers of the different parishes, and others.

By Sir John Sinclair, Bart.

This interesting and useful Work is now completed, as there is not a SINGE PARISH in the kingdom omitted.

There will sometime hence be given a Volume, containing a general and particular index to the whole Work, with such additions, corrections, or alterations, as may have occurred.

It is requested that gentlemen would immediately complete their sets, as, in a short time it will be impossible to do so, the orders from parishes and boroughs for complete sets being numerous.

TOWN HALL, ABERDEEN, 5th December, 1798.

At a numerous and respectable meeting of the Merchants, Bankers, Fraders, and other inhabitants of the city of Aberdeen, called by the Lord Provost.

Thomas Levs, Esq. of Glasgowforest, Lord Provost of Aberdeen, in the Chair.

THE Provost laid before the meeting a letter which he had received from the Lord Mayor of London, of date the 44th of last month, annexing a copy of the following resolutious of a numerous meeting of Merchants, Bankers, and other inhabitants of the city of London, held at the Mansion House upon the 21st of that month, vis.

1. That the principle of finance resorted to in the last session of Parliament, namely, that of raising within the year a considerable portion of the sum necessary for the public service, has contributed in a very eminent degree to the improvement of public credit, and the advantage of the community.

II. That the meeting are nevertheless of opinion, that the

II. That the meeting are nevertheless of opinion, that the criterion, then assumed, as the basis of that extraordinary supply, has been found anequal in its operation, in as much as it has failed to call forth a due ratio of contribution from many has failed to call forth a due ratio of contribution from many descriptions of persons.

III. That impressed with full confidence that the resources of these kingdoms are adequate to the maintenance of our mational homour and independence, this meeting think it proper to declare their readiness to give their atmost support to anch measures as the legislature may deem best calculated to call forth these resources in a more equal and effectual manner; trusting that its wisdom will device such expedients for that purpose, as, combined with our late glorious victories, may afford the means of further spirited resistance to the power and pretensions of the enemy, and secure, not only the blessings we now enjoy, but also that ultimate object of all our exertions, a safe and honourable peace.

Which having been read over,

IT WAS UNANIMOUSLY RESOLVED,

IT WAS UNANIMOUSLY RESOLVED,

That this meeting do agree with, and heartily approve of the above resolutions, as must tend to call forth the resources of the country, and to prevent, as much as possible, burdens being laid on that class of the community, least able to hear them.

RESOLVED further, unanimously,

That this meeting, being fully sensible that powerful exer-tions at this period are particularly necessary, in order to fol-low up and secure to us the good effects of our glorious and splendid victories—Do therefore recommend to all ranks of splendar victories—Bo interiore reconstruct of all rains as persons, a chearful acquiescence in those measures which shall be adopted by the legislature, as best calculated to procure an honourable, advantageous, and permanent peace.

That the thanks of this meeting be given to the Right Honourable the Lord Mayor of London, for his obliging communication.

That the thanks of this meeting be also given to Provost
Leys, for calling thereof, and for his conduct in the chair,—

That copies of these resolutions, subscribed by the Chairnuan,

Da SMELLOME'S EYE SALVE

Da SMELLOME'S EYE SALVE.

THIS SALVE is the composition of the late Da JOHN BMELLOME, an eminent Physician, and Pellow of the Royal College Edinburgh. The experience of appeared of the principal towns in Great Britain), has so fully established its character, that it is unaccessary for the proprietor to say any thing in its commendation, furnier than that it cursall sorts of dimness, inflammations, dryness, isching, and films in the eyes, as well those arising from a natural weakness us those from accidents, such as dust, lime, &c. It is remarkably good for ailments in the eyes after the small-pox, mesales, and fevers, effectually removing ull watery and grosser humours from them, and strengthening weak eight where there is no visible illness; and is so safe an application to that delicate organ, that although many thousands of all ranks can bear witness to the cures it has effected, yet in no one cate was it cure how in proce buriful.

The late Mrs Smellome having bequeathed the sole property of this medecine to Mr Strachan (a grand applew of her father Op Smellome's), who assisted her in preparing it for many years previous to her death, it continues to be sold by him at her late house No. 75, Hay-market, London, and by his appointment in Edinburgh, at

To be LET for such a number of years as can be agreed upon

To be Let for such a number of years as can be agreed upon THE HILLs of BRECKLET, immediately contiguous and adjacent to the well-known state Quarry of Batchellish, upon the side of Lochleven in Appin, Argyllshire.

The expences to be incurred in opening this hill fer quarrying states, must be very triling, as to all appearance in every part, and indeed by trials made by experienced workmen, it will require almost no thring except the surface sod.

The situation of this hill is peculiarly well adapted for the expostation of states, as Lochleven is completely assignable for wessels to any extent of burden employed in the state trade.—There can he no doubt of the excellent quality of the states as it must be a continuation of the same rock with Ballchellish. Every possible accommodation will be given for the conveniency of the tacksman and workmen.

Proposals will be received by Duncan Campbell, writers. Inverary; or by James Hay, writer to the signet, Edinburgh; and John M'Intyre, tenant in Brecklet, will shew the premisses.

DECEMBER 6.

It is understood in the Ministerial circles, that the purable Thomas Grenville will immediately proceed to the Courts of Vienna upon an important diploma tic mission. This journey, is is faid, is to be undertaken in confequence of the reluctance that the King of Prufsia and the Emperor have shewn to join the consedera-cy which ministers have formed with Russia and the Porte. Mr Grenville goes first to Berlin and afterwards to Vienna.

We understand that Lord Elgin is about to leave London for Constantinople, whither his Lordship is Captain Ryder, of the Weymouth man of war, who arrived a few days ago in England from the Mediter-ranean, states, that he spoke the Powerful man of war, Captain O'Brien Drury, in Gibraltar. Bay, who informed him, that accounts had been received from Tetuan, on the coast of Barbary, with the important information that the Captain Pacha, having under his command a large aimy of Turks, had attacked the French army in their intrenched camps near Cairo, and that a most bloody conflict ensued, which lasted three days, during which time a great slaughter ensued. It was reported that the French were driven from their encampments, but that the Turks loft 16,000 men.

The destruction of the French transports in the harbour of Alexandria, and the retreat of Buonaparte to that place, were mentioned in many letters received by the Coloffus, and the Lifbon mail, and particularly we understand, in several letters from Lord Nelson to TURKEY, November 4.

The account of the progress of the Turkish arms against the Rebel Pacha, Passawan Oglou, are still very infavourable. Private letters from Alterfova and Semlin, of the 27th of October and 1th of November state, that the Captain Pacha, who carried on the attack against Widden with 27,000 men, had fucceeded in destroying the outworks of the place, so that he could advance to the town; but as fallies were to be apprehended from the fortress, and he had lost great numbers of his men by the continual fire from the artillery of the place, he was obliged to encamp out of the reach of cannon shot. But even this precaution was of little effect :- In the night of the 15th October Passawan Oglou made a falwith his whole force, entirely deltroyed the camp of ly with his whole force, entirely delitoyed the Captain Pacha, and killed a great number of the Turks. The rest fought fafety in flight, and the Pacha himself had not time to fave his baggage, but was obliged to set fire to his own and his officers' tents, to prevent their falling into the hands of the enemy. On the following day the troops of the Graud Signior were no longer to be feen through the whole country; and Passawan Oglou remained at full liberty to recruit and extend his FRANKFORT, November 17. Appearances are again very warlike. The Army of Mentz will be again called the Army of the Rhine, and be augmented to 80,000 men. - The French Head-Quarters are now at Wisbaden, and will, it is said, go with General Jourdan to Strafbourg. The fituation of Ehrenbreistein becomes every day more critical.

The Gazettes here, under the head Vienna, affert that the Porte had declared war against the Batavian Republic .- (The latest direct accounts from Vienna and Constantinople mention nothing of this .- Note of Hamburgh

The army here having been reinforced with a confiderable number of troops from different parts, the Re-bels have been every where attacked with success, and we hope that tranquillity will foon be restored. General Galland has already declared the Department of the Dyle and this city no longer in a state of siege. Seven waggons with arrested persons have again set off from this city for Paris.

The Board of Health has officially anounced to the inhabitants of the city of New York, that they may with fafety return to their houses, as the setting in of the late cold weather and frost has rendered the pestilential fever no longer to be dreaded, provided they take the neceffary precautions and to cleanfe and ventilate their long unaired dwellings, and to purify the bedding and clothing which has been left therein, during the preva-lence of the fever.

In the new election for Members to represent the people of the United States, the French partizans are every way fuccefsfully opposed, and a great majority in favour of Government will be returned.

Mr Erskine, the Counsellor's fon, is arrived at Norfolk in America. He intends to pay a vifit to General Washington, at Mount Vernon, and afterwards to make

One of the American papers has the following para graph :-

Some French papers were received yesterday by Government. They are to the 26th ultimo, only one day later than the last feries of Paris journals.

These papers were brought to this country by a cartel from Gravelines, which arrived at Dover on Wednesday last with Major Armstrong, the officers of the 11th regiment, and about 100 feamen, who have been regularly exchanged.

The only intelligence of importance received by this we understand, in feveral letters from Lord Nelson to persons here, though no official account had reached his Lordship of the fact. We are happy in being able appear under the head Paris, 6 Frimaire (Nov. 26).

"We are affured that confiderable affemblages of part of the property they have power to alienate. It men are forming in the Morbilian, and that fresh commotions are daily expected in the western depart-The meffage addressed to the Directory by the Council of Five Hundred, at the close of the General Committee, renders this report very probable. Let us hope, however, that the wildom and vigour of government will know how to preferve from new convultions these provinces which still feel the horrors of the war of La Vendee; and that the peaceful genius of. Hoche will still hover round the banks of the Loire.

" Letters from Italy state, that the Austrian Army, which occupies the country of the Grifons, has entered the Valteline country; and that numerous corps of our troops are marching to the same quarter. On the 4th and 5th Brumaire 1600 Republicans passed Mount St. Marlo, on their March to the Valteline.'

The question of the suppression of the Tolls of Els fleth, on the Rhine, is now one of the principal objects of contention at the Congress of Rastadt. According to letters from Rastadt, it appear that the Danish Minister has given in a memorial, in which he infifts that neither the French por the Emperor have any right to suppress that toll: it is said also that both Sweden and Denmark are, at the infligation of the Ruffian Cabinet, arming to join the confederacy against France.

The foreign journals contain no authentic accounts om Egypt. The latest intelligence respecting Buonafrom Egypt. The latest intelligence respecting Buona-parte and his army has probably been received by the over-land express which arrived yesterday from India-On this interesting subject, however, nothing that we can state with any degree of accuracy has yet transpired. The advices brought by this express, we understand, state that the Company's ships Exeter, Bombay Castle, Brunswick, and Earl Howe, arrived at Bombay early in June laft.

Lord Elgin's embaffy to Coftantinople is intended to be unufually splendid, as a compliment to the Grand Seignior. His Lordship will assume the title of Ambaffador Extraordinary and Minister Plenipotentiary, and is to carry out with him a very numerous suite. He is also to take with him two full length pictures of the King and Queen, and a rich state canopy, under which he will receive the compliments of the foreign Ministers and others, on his arrival at Constantinople. A fervice of plate of the value of 5000l. is now making for his Lordship.

Mr Grattan, it is faid, is to be brought into the Britifh parliament on the interest of a certain noble duke, for the purpose of giving all necessary information on the fubject of Ireland.

We understand that a feeret expedition of great moment, in which eight regiments of cavalry, and fome corps of infantry are to be employed, is on the eve of failing from this country. It would be improper in us to endeavour to discover its object.—General Tarleton is appointed to the command of the English cavalry in Portugal, and, it is reported, is to have fome share in the direction of the enterprise.

Some time ago we stated the probability of a very extensive plan of commercial intercourse which was up-on the tapis, and that among other treaties it was posible that a good understanding with the court of Spain would take place. The rumour that Minorca has been feized on without a struggle does not contradict this supposition; but there are stronger evidences of the progrefs of the negociation than any that have herotofore transpired. For several days past policies have been done upon foreign veffels destined to Vera Cruz, and home again, to an amount that indicates the defign of the voyage, and that promifes very beneficial confequences to the manufactures of Great Britain.

A letter, figned by feveral Lord Lieutenants of ounties and Colonels of regiments of militia is fent out, to call a meeting of Lord Lieutenants and Colonels of militia at the Thatched House Tavern, St James's-street, on the 15th day of December, to take into confidera-tion the subject of forming the flank companies of militia into battalions, which is stated to be highly important to the fystem of militia.

Yesterday a General Court was held at the East India House, when it was resolved to grant a pension of 1500l. a year to Lord Hobart during the term of the Company's exclusive charter.

At a Court of Common Council yesterday, Mr Samuel Dixon made a motion, which was feconded by Mr Kemble, as highly honourable to the Court, as it as it was to the individual who made it ;- " That the Court is highly gratified by the very spirited conduct of John Taylor and James Harding, two brave Seamen, who, at the risk of their lives, rescued the dispatches from General Buonoparte."- It was unanimoufly agreed to, and referred to a Committee to confider in what manner they should be rewarded.

The Court broke up at half past three.

LAND TAX. Mr Pirr role to move for leave to bring in a bill to amend the land tax redemption bill.

The object of the measure he had to propose, was to give some additional facility to the operation of the bill, by allowing some extension of the time limited for proprietors to purchase, by enabling persons having estates n different counties to fell one or a part of one, for the purpose of purchasing the land tax in others.

There is another more confiderable object. It related to ecclesiastical property. Ecclesiastical bodies have great difficulties as the act now flands, to afcertain what, als to make a disclosure of their circumstances. Yet such was his intention to explain this clearly in the bill he propered to bring in.

Some regulations were necessary with respect to entails, and to do away a supposed inequality which existed in certain parishes, and render the repartion more. equal. It was but fair that there should be a pro rate reduction allowed in parishes where is appeared that the whole parish had paid more than its share.

There were several other regulations with which the should not at present take up the time of the Houses He would simply move "that leave be given to bring in a bill to extend the time limited for the redemption of the land tax, by the act passed last session, and to amend and explain that act."

Mr Johns did not rife to oppose the motion. were amended. The hould be very glad if the bill House however would recollect how eager the Right Hon. Gentleman was to hurry the original bill through the House. It now appeared that the bill could not go on without another to amend it. He believed, as as Hon. Baronet lately faid, that the land and the money were about to change hands. He felt for the landed interest, and unfit as he was to the task, he would, if no one elfe did, endeavour to obtain for them formething like justice. This bill was ruinous to the landed interest. It was in his opinion the child of Inordinate Power. He was forry to be obliged to use harth terms

-At present he should say no more.

Mr Pirr rose to explain. It appeared that the Honourable Gentleman had paid as little attention to the notice he had now given, as he had formerly done to the progress of the bills he had alluded to, in language fo extraordinary. So far was he from stating that the bill was not beneficial, that he merely signified his inteqtion to move for leave to bring in a bill to give greater facility to its operation. With regard to the injuffice which the Hon. Gentleman conceived to be done to the landed interest, his opinion was cetainly erroneous. -It would be fingular indeed that a measure of the kind the Hon. Gentlemau imagined this to be, should receive the support of nine-tenths of the landed interest, who had [zealoufly supported it both in and out of Parlla-

The Parliament had thought proper to adopt the principle of the bill, and the approbation it had received from all bodies, whether of the commercial, monied, or landed interests had proved that House had acted completely unifon with the public opinion. The charging hurrying the bill thought the House was equally unfounded. No measure was ever more deliberately dis-cussed. The reasons which were urged against it by a few members of that House, he must confess did not appear to him to have any weight, and the general approbation the bill had fince received, tended to confirm im in this opinion.

There was only one other topic he should notice. The Honourable Gentleman had denominated the bill' an act of power. Every act of the legislature was an act of power. The epithet therefore meant applying. The power the Honourable Gentleman alluded for was. that by which the House existed, and of which he hoped there was none present wished to see it deprived.

Mr Johnze said a few words in explanation.

Mr Burden expressed his warm approbation of the. land tax bill, and hoped that every thing necessary would be done to explain such parts as were doubtful, to amend it where amendments were wanting, and to give the fullest facility to its operation.

The motion was then put, and leave given to bring in

STAFF OFFICERS.

Mr M. A. TAYLOR moved, that there be laid before the House a list of the General and Staff Officers at prefent employed, with the names of the divisions, &c. to which they belong .- Adjourned.

Mr Tierney's Reply to Mr Pitr's Speech on the Plan of Finance. Mr TIERNEY faid that after the eloquent effusion which the House had just heard from the Honourable

Gentleman, he was not fo vain as to hope that any thing that he could offer in reply would worthy of comparative confideration. He had, therefore, to apologize to the House for offering himself to their attention, fensible as he was that nothing from him could, after such an appeal to their passions, make the flightest impression on their minds. ling to allow that the lituation of the Chancellor of 'the Exchequer was of the most trying description and that the result of that night's deliberation was of the utmost importance not only to Great Britain, but to Europe; and therefore he could have wished that the measure submitted to them had been of sucha nature as not to compel him to give it his decided of position. When he came down to the House we evening, he understood that the intention of the Hamiltonian control of the Hamiltoni nourable Gentleman- was merely to fate the gental outline of his plan, and not to enter into those particle lars which he had so diffutely stated to the House; copfequently he was not prepared (and it required much preparation on his part) to combat the immense torrent eloquence with which the House had just bees transported. From the experience which he had had of the financial statements of the Chancellor of the Exchequer, he could not indulge himself in the hope that there would be no other loan requifite for the fervices of the enfuing year than that of which the House had just received notice. Upon this point, he wished particularly to be informed; and if he received an affurance from the Honourable Gentle man that no further fums would be required, h hoped he would keep his word. He gave him much credit for having made a very correct calculation from the documents which he had alluded to, and still more for the manner in which he had expressed himself upon the subject of drawbacks; but disapproving, as he did of the principle of the plan which had been submitted to the House, it could hardly be expected of him tha he should be so unmindful of his duty to his constitu ents, as to remain filent on the fubject, even for fingle night. The measure of the increased asset ments, last year, met with his decided disapprobation and he was not fo inartentive to the duty which he owed to the public, as not to oppose, in the present instance, a scheme which was infinitely more tionable. When the former measure was before the House, it was supported by some Gentlemen upon the ground that it did not insist upon the disclosure of the circumstances of the perions who might have occation to appeal against its undue operation; and it was even then faid by many of its supporters, that it would be better to abandon the plan altogether, if it could be enforced by no other means than that of obliging individufithe measure now proposed should prove as unpro-give as that of last year, the harangue of the Chan-gor of the Exchequer against the evaders of the tax, and no doubt be great and as eloquent as that which had just heard from him, and a general disciosure, be every circumstance, would of course be demanded. he argument urged in favour of the increased affestouts was, that the plan could not be confidered as a supon income; the Chancellor of the Exchequer, geter, now came forward, and affuming a bolder ge, openly avowed his determination of adopting a which was lately deemed obnoxious by his friends. tenth part of the income of almost every man in country was to be put in a state of requisition; a afure fo iniquitous, that not even that Government high the Honourable Gentleman had so justly and quently branded with infamy, would venture to en-The tax altogether be confidered as a fystem indiferiminate rapine, for rapacious must that plan which operated in the manner that this was inended to do. Did the Honourable Gentleman mean high as the holder of an estate in tail, or that the dow with her annuity was as capable of contributing mards the expences of the state as a person who was the actual possession of a capital in the funds?

All that could be said in favour of the measure was hat of a bad measure the Minister had made the best. Sach an argument might be deemed a good one for the proposer of the plan, but by no means a sufficient reason for him to vote for a measure having for its object to deprive of their comforts the most respectable part of the community. If affairs were to be conducted in the fame manner as they had hitherto been done, it might indeed be necessary to have recourse to such an expedient; but he trusted we were not yet reduced to that dreadful dilemma; it was a measure of fo desperate a patere, as not to be reforted to until every other means of taxation was exhausted. There were church establiffments, the only use of which was to enable holders of them to wallow in luxury, and indulge in grandeur, and which of course were fair objects of taxation.

Corporations, he thought, ought also to be looked to, and converted to the benefit of the revenue. (A general cry of hear! hear! from the Treasury bench). For his own part, he faid, he would not lay hands on the property of any man, or any fet of men, of whatever defeription they might be; but if the principle was to be adopted, it ought to take a proper direction. The plan evidently went to injure that description of people who merely derived annuities from the funds; while, according to the arguments of the minister, it was likely to benefit those who were actual holders of stock. The former having no disposable property, could not be be-nefited by any rise of the stocks that might take place; whereas the latter, if, as stated by the Chancellor of the Exchequer, the measure was likely to elevate rather than depress the funds, would experience an advantage that could not be hoped for by any other class of his Majefty's subjects; in which case the stockholder could not be supposed to contribute his due proportion to the necessities of the state; so that one class of the people might be faid to contribute for the advantage of another. The Right Honourable Gentleman appeared to him to be attentive only to the simple principle of benefiting the revenue, without considering the hardships that must attach to the cases of certain individuals. Considering the present as a temporary tax, how great would be the hardship of a man who, possessing an estate in tail, was obliged to pay a tenth part of his income to the difad-vantage of the younger branches of his family, who, on his demife, might thereby, be left destitute, from the extreme weight of the impost, the heir at law becoming possessed of the estate. This he conceived to be a confideration not unworthy the attention of the Honourable Gentleman. Mr Terney then adverted to a change of financial principle that had of late taken place in the Chancellor of the Exchequer. Had he not been acquainted with the voice of the Honourable Gentleman, was he not certain of his person, or had he not been accustomed to the eloquence of his harangues, he should have thought that it was a new minister who had prefented himself to the House, for the purpose of abusing the measures of the last five years; of condemning the means adopted during that time for raising the taxes which had been levied to pay the interest of the enormous debt of 50,000,000l. fterling, unnecessarily incurred in the course of that period, and of censuring his conduct for having degraded his ministerial character in recognizing the French Republic, and fending an ambaffador to that power to treat of peace.

It might, continued Mr Tierney, be very fine to talk of a prolongation of just and necessary war, for the purpose of delivering Europe; but for his own part, he must consider himself as standing in that House as a representative of the people of England, and not as a deputy from the Congress of Rastadt. He deprecated the idea of this country engaging in a continental war, and expressed his sincere belief that it was by peace alone that the fecurity of Europe could be accomplished. No man could be more freindly than he was to any measure having for its object the fecurity and honour of the country; but when he found the people called upon to pay the falvage of their fafety, and was at the fame time told that the war was no longer to be carried on for ourselves, but for the benefit of other powers, under the pretence of rescuing Europe from French despotism he loft all patience, and was filled with indignant furprize. Under these considerations, he should consider that he but ill performed his duty as a representative of the people, if he did not oppose the measure now proposed to the House. He had given his cordial support to the supplies for the maintenance of our present naval establishment, under the impression that it was expedient to keep up our mari ime superiority as long as the war thould lait; but with respect to our military eltablithment, he thought differently. In the proposed increase of the army, he discovered the feeds of extended warfare, and faw that visionary prospects of continental conquests had presented them-felves to the view of his Majesty's Ministers. These the nature of the present proposition, that all per-were to be compelled to make that very disclosure would alter their opinion, and that nathing would alter their opinion, and that nothing more would be attempted than the ample fecurity of the British dominions. At all events, he could not confent to an increate of our military establishment while so many of our militia regiments were permitted to remain in Ire-land, unless it was satisfactorily proved to the House that their further stay in that country was a measure of undispensible necessity. He was forry that the plan of the Chancellor of the Exchequer was of such a nature as to oblige him to give it his opposition; but his duty to his constituents was paramount to every other con-fideration: For the present, he should content himself with expressing his disapprobation of the principle of the measure; but, in the suture stages of the business, he should take an opportunity of stating more particularly his objections to the tax.

EDINBURGH-DECEMBER 10.

FROM OUR LONDON CORRESPONDENT.

HOUSE OF COMMONS—Dec. 7.

Mr Mainwaring brought up the report of the comthe city of London were referred.

The report being read, Mr MAINWARING moved for leave to bring in a bill for improving the port of London, by wet docks, quays, &c. Leave given.

Mr Hobnouse moved, "that there be laid before this House an account of the money advanced by the Bank of England for the public service, and outstanding on the 7th Dec. 1798." Ordered.

Mr Rosz brought up the army federation bill (the fame as that of last feffon) which was read a first time, and ordered to be read a fecond time to-morrow. ISLAND OF ST VINCENTS.

Sir WILLIAM YOUNG brought up a petition from the planters, &c. of the illand of St. Vincents, praying for aid from Parliament. Ordered to lie on the

The personal estates, &cc. duty bill was committed, and the report ordered to be received to-morrow. The malt, mum, cyder and perry duty bill was read third time and paffed.

LAND TAX. Mr Pitt brought up the bill amending the land tax redemption bill, which he moved for yesterday. It was read a first time, and moved to be read a second time

Sir John Sinclair did not oppose the second reading to-morrow. As the bill was of very great importance, he hoped that the Right Hon. Gentleman could have no objection to fill up the blanks in the Committee, and have the bill printed, and time given for con-fideration before it was re-committed. Mr RYDER faid, that this was a measure which had already received the fanction of the House, and the prefent bill being only for amending the former, he faw no occasion for delay.

Mr Pirr faid he should certainly move for the bill to be committed on Monday. Though perfectly opinion with his Honourable Friend, that all unnecelfary delay ought to be avoided, he was willing that every opportunity should he given for discussion, in order that the bill might receive all the improvement it was capable of. He should therefore move for printing the bill and filling up the blanks. At the fame time he could not avoid remarking that the Honourable Baronet feemed to be altogether ignorant of the nature of this bill.

Mr Hussey faid, that from his own observation he could not but know that carrying the last bill into effect had occasioned a considerable expence to the country. It was necessary for the House to enquire whether this was to be the case with the present bill. He had been told that the expence of the last bill was no less than one million. He should be glad to know if this was the fact; for if it was, the purchase to the nation would be dear indeed.

Mi Pitt .- If the redemption of the land-tax could not be obtained by any lefs than one million, I have no helitation in faying, that the advantage for the nation would be cheaply purchased at that price. It is, however, impossible to give the Honourable Gentle-man the information he feems to want, unless he shall be pleased to state under what heads he supposed the enormous expence he has alluded to, has been incurred.

Mr Hussey .- It is impossible for me to explain the heads under which the expence has fallen. I have however reason to believe that it has been very great. Confiderable expences have been occasioned by clerks and fees of various kinds. Has the Right Honourable Gentleman never been informed of the vait expence I have mentioned from any other quarter.

The bill was then ordered to be read a fecond time

Mr Port moved, that there be laid before the House an account of the expence occasioned by the bill passed last session of Parliament for the redemption of the land

VOLUNTARY SERVICE. Mr PITT brought up a bill for continuing the Vo-luntary Service of the English militia in Ireland, which was read a first time.

Mr TIERNEY faid a few words, declaring that he should not oppose the bill.

INCOME BILL. The House resolved into a Committee on the bill for Paxing Income-Mr Smith in the chair.

Mr PITT faid it was his intention to have the claufes filled up pro forma in this Committee, and to move for the bill being printed. Gentlemen would have a more convenient opportunity of discussing the measure after

The Houle being refumed, the report was ordered to be received to-morrow, and the bill to be printed.

SCOTS SMALL NOTE BILL. The House resolved into a Committee on this bill, Mr HOBART in the chair.

On the motion of Mr William DUNDAS, the blank for lengthening the duration of the bill was filled up the 1st of May 1799.

ENGLISH SMALL NOTES BILL.

The House resolved into a Committee on this bill, and after fome converfation, progress was reported and leave asked to fit again to-morrow, which was granted.

HULL, Dec. 7. The inhabitants of this town yesterday and to-day have experienced the pleasing and exhilarating sight of upwards of 60 sail of ships arriving from the Baltic. They may be valued at nearly 300,000.—They are part of a sleet of 400 sail. Three privateers got into the midit of them; but owing to gales of wind did not make any captures. Several of the ships are now in sight, but cannot get their names. cannot get their names.

TO PERSONS SERIFECT TO

FITS, PAINS IN THE STOMACH, &c.

THE Patentee of CHING's WORM-DESTROYING LOZENGES has the satisfaction to recombend this celebrated Medicine to the general use of the affilt of with Internal Complaints, under the auspices and patronage of many of the first Personages in England.

The Lord Chuef Baron, the Right Honourable Sir Archibald Mardonald, has honoured the Proprietor with three letters on the subject, from whence the following is extracted, as the most striking proofs of his Lordship's decided approbation.

Sir, To Mr Ching, Apothecary, Cheapside.

I do you the justice of acquainting you, that my son has derived very material benefit from your Worm Medicine. He was selzed about a year and a half ago with Firs, which were deemed to be nervous, and were attended with very alarming symptoms of that nature; his complaints were treated as such for two or three months, when the real cause appeared to be Worms. He had continued for a considerable time taking medicine proper for that disorder, from a playscian of great skill, my own personal friend, but there was little or no abatement of the nervous symptoms. By accident I met with your advertisement, and, with the approbation of my physician, I gave your medicine to my son: the consequence was, that he was relieved from a load which cannot with propriety bedescaibed, but which appeared to be the next of these pernicious animals, From that time he has been in perfect health, and has had no return of those symptoms which had been so formidable. Encouraged by this, I have recommended your Medicine to my friends, particularly a family with whom I am nearly connected, where it has also done very great service. When we happen to meet, I shall acquaint you with more instances than I have yet done, in which your Medicine has been attended with perfect success, especially among children.

I am, Sir, your very obliged,

As a further proof of the safety and efficacy of this incomparable Worm Medicine, the following is a recommendation from two o ty of Cornwall, having received the most satisfactory testimonies of these facts (alluding to a great number of remarkable cures) think it our duty, for the benefit of mankind, to recommend Mr Cunno's Worm Lozenges as a Medicine deserving public notice.

public notice.

FRANCIS RODD.

JOHN ELIOT.

The excellence of these Lozenges is confirmed by their happy effects when administered to men, women, as children, scarcely a single case having occurred in which their success has not amply established their reputation on that firm and permanent basis, THE PUBLIC OFINION.

The mildness of operation and facility of cure, together with the pleasant flavour and agreeable appearance which these Lozenges possess, give them an obvious superiority over every other worm medicine that has hitherto been offered to the Public blic.

THE LANDS and ESTATE of COBAIRDIE, comprehend

THE LANDS and ESTATE of COBAIRDIE, comprehending the Mains and Manor Place of Cobairdie, Mill of Cobairdie, Mill Lands, Multures, and Sequels thereof, the Towns and Lands of Hillockhead, Boghead, Broomfold, Watts, and Cairntown, with the Crofts of the same; as also, the Towns and Lands of Yondertown, Hallhill, Lochside, Peatfold, Blackstack, and White Glacks, with the Crofts thereof; together with the multures, teinds, pasturage, and vicarage, mosses, fishings, liberty of pasturage on the Forman-hill, and hall other parts, privileges, and operingents of the foresaid lands, all other parts, privileges, and operingents of the foresaid lands. hail other parts, privileges, and ocrtinents of the foresaid lands and others, all lying within the barony of Frendraught, parish and others, all lying within the barony of Frendraught, parish of Forgue, and county of Aberdeen.

This estate holds of the Crown, and affords a frsehold qualification. The free rent of it, after deduction of the Minister's stipend, (cess and all other public burdens, being payable by the tenants) converting the meal, bear, customs, and services, at very moderate rates, is about 340. Sterling.

These lands are an excellent strong soil, and lie in a most pleasant and fertile country, within two miles of lime, two miles of the town of Huntly, where there is a Post-office, and a weekly market, and twelve or fourteen miles of Banff and Portsoy, both sea port towns, and the like distance from a number of fishing towns, from whence fish are daily brought.

There is upon the premisses a substantial manson-nouse, and suitable offices, beautifully situate on a gentle declivity to the south. A very capital and valuable farm surrounds the house, all inclosed with dykes and belts of planting, which was for many years in the natural possession of the proprietor, and is at present in a very high state of cultivation.

The kirk, manse, and offices, were lately completely repaired, and the Minister's stipend was also lately augmented.

There are but few leases on the estate, and those of short duration; the Mains and Mill particularly, are not under lease.

Upon the estate there are several large thriving plantations of wood of different ages. The surrounding country abounds with game, and the Deveron, the best river in Scotland for trout, is in the immediate vicinity, so that in every point of view, whether for agricultural purposes, situation, or pleasure, this is one of the most desirable properties in Aberdeenshire.

The title deeds, a plan and rentals of the estate may be seen in the hands of Francis Gordon and Andrew Jopp, Advocates in Aberdeen, to either of whom the proprietor at Park, or in Aberdeen, to either of whom the proprietor at Park, or Lachlan Duff, Esq. writer to the signet, Edinburgh, applica-tion may be made for further particulars; and John Watson, at Cobairdie, will show the lands.

SALE OF A FARM IN THE COUNTY OF ANGUS To be SDLD by public roup, within the Royal Exchange Cof-feehouse, Edinburgh, on Wednesday the 19th day of De-cember 1798, between the hours of two and threein the af-

THE LANDS of LEDCRIEFF, in the parish of Lundie consisting of about 175 acres of arable and improveable ground, 25½ acres of planting, of which three are hard wood, 3½ acres of pasture, and 132½ of dry improveable muir, in all 33½ acres, or thereby, and presently possessed by Mr James Smith, whose lease expires at Martinmas next, but who has been allowed to continue in possession for another year, under particular restrictions, and at the rent of 2001 Sterling. These lands lie about three miles from Cupar of Angus, 13 from Perth, and 12 from Dundee, on the turnpike road from Cupar to Dundee, where lime is easily procured; and they are not

The farm slopes to the south and south-west, so gently as to be worked with an ordinary strength, and is capable of being cultivated to great advantage, by the improved mode of hus-bandry with drill crops, as also of being water-fatted in three several places; and it is already nearly inclosed with dry stone

The extent, situation, and capability of improvement render this an extremely eligible purchase for any person wishing to reside upon and farm the property. And, in the event of its being let for a term of years, a considerable rise of rent may undoubtedly be expected.

A sketch of this farm may be seen in the hands of Mr Charles Hay of Beachhill, writer in Cupar of Angus, or Mr William Watson at Auchtertyre. And the tenant will show

> HIDICIAL SALE OF LANDS IN THE COUNTY OF STIRLING.

To be Sold, by authority of the Court of Session, within the Parliament of New Session House of Edinburgh, upon Wednesday the 19th day of December curt. between the hours of five and seven afternoon,

THE ESTATE of MUIRAVQNSIDE, which comprehend the Lands of Bowhouses, and part of the Lands of Compston, situated within the parish of Murrayonside.—
The lands are capable of great improvement; and there is a seam of excellent coal, which, at a trifling expence, may be seam of excellent coal, which, at a trifling expence, may be wrought to very great advantage. The estate affords two freehold qualifications, and lies at the distance of two or three miles from Linlithgow. The mansion-house, with the orchard, and planting. (which is extensive, and in a very thriving state) is pleasantly situated on the banks of the water of Avon, and justly reckoned one of the most romantic beautiful situations in Scotland. The farms are mostly out of lease. The lands lie contiguous, and there is a quantity of growing wood now fit for use, which may be sold at a considerable price.

From the Memorial and Abstract it appears the estate is divided into the following

L-The LANDS and BARONY of MUIRAVONSIDE comprehending the Mansion-house and Mill of Muiravonside the free rent of which at present is 277l. 8s. 6d. 2-12ths; but as the lands are mostly out of lease, it was therefore thought pro-per to prove what rent they would bring upon a nineteer years lease; and it appears, from the testimony of two witness ses, who have known the estate for many years, that the land comprehended in this parcel, upon a Nineteen years lease might yeild 256l. 18s. 6d. 8-12ths Sterling, the upset price of , as affording a freehold qualification, is 7450l. 18s. 1d. prictor has right to the teinds.

II.—The LANDS of WESTER and MIDDLE BOWHOLL SES, &c. The proven free rent of these lands, which are out of leasa, is 31l. 12s. 8d. but upon they might bring 45l. Sterling. It does not appear that the proprietor has right to the teinds, so that a 5th part of the rent will fall to be deducted on that account; and the upset price, The lands are held blench of a subject superior.

HL—The LANDS of CAMPSTON. The present rent is III.—The LANDS of CAMPSTON. The present rent is 115 l. 10s. but on a nineteen years lease, they would be worth 91 l. 3s. 6d. Sterling.—These lands are held fen of saubject superior for payment of 10s. Sterling yearly. The proprietor has right to the teinds of part of the lands;—it does not appear he has to those of the farms of Newhouse, Easter and Wester Draffins; but the teinds of these farms are valued, as instructed by a decreet of valuation in 1772.—The upset price of this parcel leip higher. The reason of the present rent of this parcel heips higher. The reason of the present rent of this parcel being higher got if the lease is, that they were let formerly for pasture, but lately for tillage.

IV.—SUPERIORITIES and FEU-DUTIES of the Lands of REDFORD, and Part of CANDIEHEAD. The annual value of these Feu-duties is 2 l. 2 s. 2 d. 4-12ths Sterling. They are classed with the above lands, in order to make up a Freehold Qualification, and the upset price is 52 l. 148. 10 d. 4-12ths

Vi.—WOOD growing upon the Lands of MURRAVON-SIDE, BOWHOUSES, and COMPSTON.—The value of the wood under sale, is proved to be 1027 l. 11 s. 6 d. Sterling.

VI.—The COAL in the Lands of BOWHOUSES.—The Coal is not wrought at present owing to the level being choaked up, but which might be set agoing at little expence; and it is proved, that after deducting that expence, this Coal when upon a 19 years lease, might bring 4col. Sterling, which is therefore fixed on as the upset price of this lot.

VII.—SUPERIORITIES and FEU-DUTIES of COXHILL.

VII.—SUPERIORITIES and FEU-DOTTESO COATHEL.
These Superiorities are classed separately, as they make a Freehold Qualification. The Feu-duties payable out of these lands are 5 l. 13s. 4 d. 5-12ths Sterling yearly, and the upset price, as affording a Freehold Qualification is 341 l. 14s. 2d.
5-12ths Sterling. The composition for an entry of Singular 5-12ths Sterling. The Successors is not taxed.

The articles of roup, and a plan of the estate, with copies of the Memorial and Abstract, will be seen in the office of Mr Jeffery, Depute-Clerk of Session, and in the hands of Mr Keay, accountant, or Hector Macdonald Buchanan, writer to the signet, to whom intending purchasers may apply for further information.

Alex Meason, gardener at Linlithgow, willshew the estate N. B. Since the Sale was advertised, an application has been made to the Court of Session for authority to sell the estate in lots; in consequence of which the estate will be sold in two lots. The first, composing the six first parcels, and the second, the seventh parcel, being the Superiorities and and feuduties of Coxhill, &c. so that any intending purchaser has thus an opportunity of purchasing a freehold qualification, begides the fet-duties, at an easy rate, while are the corrections that an opportunity of purchasing a freehold qualification, besides the feu-duties, at an easy rate, while at the same time the purchaser of the first lot will have right to a vote.
